Stichbond is a type of paper with a wavy, textured surface. It is often used for book covers and endpapers. The texture is created by a process called "stichbond" (stitching bond) which involves creating a wavy pattern in the paper fibers. This gives the paper a unique, tactile quality and helps it resist moisture and wear.

Stichbond paper is available in various weights and colors. It is a popular choice for book covers and endpapers due to its durability and aesthetic appeal.
